The court denied the petition as the child was in the care of the father. Parties agreed to and attended CCRC to determine if they could agree on a visitation schedule which may resolve the case. The mother subsequently filed a domestic violence restraining order petition requesting protection form herself and protection and custody of Makoa which was granted. A declaration was filed by the proposed guardians reporting the father was arrested on charges of PC273.5 and 422. The declaration alleges the mother is now in support of the guardianship however the father remains opposed. The parents appeared at the hearing on the domestic violence restraining order which the court continued to join the guardianship matter.
